Crawl and Calm Resistance Tunnel Review

WELCOME!

Hi ya'll! I'm Jessica, thanks for stopping by! At IHeart-Motherhood you will find posts about my children, shopping deals, reviews, giveaways & more.

When it comes to Big Brother C, we have lots of sensory related & therapy toys as well as equipment around our house. Compression shirts, lap pads, weighted vests, even chewy tubes are items we use on a regular basis, we've purchased several of our items from Fun and Function & when I was recently approached with an opportunity to review one of their items, I couldn't resist!

At Fun and Function you will find a little bit of everything for your child, they offer a line of fun items like ball pits, swings, cushions & more, all engaging products that will allow for skill building & self-esteem boost. Their products are high quality, affordable & most of my son's therapists as well as other parents I know, love & use Fun and Function's therapy tools.

I was sent the Crawl and Calm Resistance Tunnel by Fun and Function, this heavy workout tunnel provides resistance as well as spacial exploration for your child. It encourages heavy work and joint proprioception, features handles at both ends & it's light weight and portable, folds up in seconds so it can travel easily with you!

My son could live in this tunnel if I let him, he wants to go through it over and over, he absolutely loves it! Living with sensory issues, he loves the stretchy crawling tunnel & it's resistant fabric. If I want to give him a really good work out, I have him push a ball or his weighted lap pad through the tunnel! We are so excited to have this Fun and Function tunnel in our home, even my daughter enjoys crawling through it & playing chase with her brother!
